TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

Peter Kelly came to our college at a difficult time in January 2015, when our web developer was going on maternity leave. Our Student Management and Learning Management systems were custom built for our needs, to facilitate student interaction and time critical government reporting. Peter was with us for more than 2 years, and it was only as we made the decision to move away from our own 'in-house' systems in favour of externally developed and maintained systems, that we took the difficult decision to let him go.

Peter was always supportive of our team, in helping to develop a resource to meet the needs of the college. He is a quirky character, with a very pleasant disposition, and often went above and beyond in his own time to ensure deadlines were met.

In his 2 years with Paramount College, Peter has shown himself to be exceptionally professional, reliable, responsible and conscientious. Peter has a very strong work ethic and was genuinely committed to the staff, students and the quality of the learning experience, which is facilitated by our IT resources. He is keenly interested in maintaining his own professional development and expanding his technical skill sets, demonstrating a strong commitment to his role. He participated and contributed thoughtfully in both internal and external meetings, to meet objectives of the college.

Peter was a highly valued member of our institution. We have absolutely no hesitation in recommending him as both a web developer and a potential member of staff.

Kind regards
